

FEB 26 - SUNNY CAUTION

Golden is experiencing a mid week storm that is set to bring 20-30 cms by Friday afternoon and then the skies will clear. This snow, no doubt, will elevate avalanche dangers and riders should take extra precautions this weekend when venturing out. Golden has received 30-40 cms of snow in the past week and the sledding has been quite good. Don't let the warm valley temperatures fool you, it's still full winter in the alpine. Our grooming ops are firing in all areas but there's some bigger changes in Silent parking this week. Keep reading to find out more.

SNOW AND WEATHER

KHMR has reported 32cms in the past week and there's another 30+ that will likely go on top of that before this storm ends on Friday late afternoon.

The winds have also been quite strong, especially in the alpine and this has formed up some bigger cornices.
